

CHECKLIST for authors seeking copyright permission

If you intend to reproduce material published by a publisher other than Aboriginal Studies Press, you must contact that publisher for permission. They may have their own forms for you to complete; check their website.

When you first contact the publisher, you may like to provide them with material from the following checklist:

- Title of the publication from which you intend taking material
- The author/editor/complier of the publication
- The ISBN of the publication
- The page numbers, chapters and word count of the material you wish to reproduce
- A copy of any changes or adaptation of the material as you wish it to appear
- The working title of your project
- The author(s) of your project

You can obtain the following information from ASP about our publications:

- Aboriginal Studies Press/AIATSIS contact details
- The markets and territories your publication will be published/distributed
- The proposed print run
- The proposed date of your publication
- The proposed retail price of your publication
